Below is the Random Encounter Table I designed. It's not that watered-down list of common monsters that some wussies like to use. This is a random encounter table for people who are serious about making sure their encounters are as random as possible.

Playing D&D? Star Wars? Shadowrun? It doesn't matter. This chart will randomize your game no matter what setting you're in. Just roll a percent die and live with whatever you get, assuming you've got the stones for it.

Remember, that which does not kill you is probably worth crap for XP.
